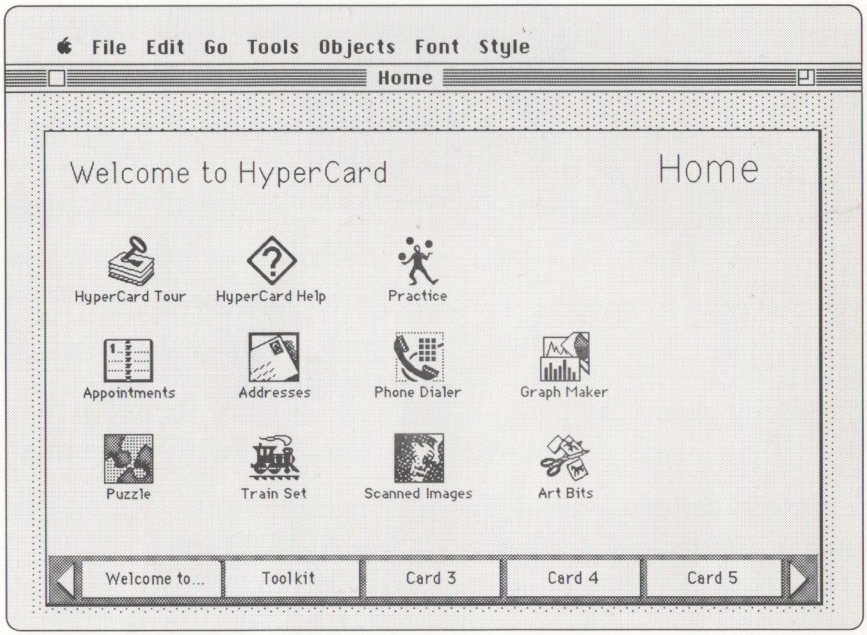
MacProductFinder



Welcome to MacProductFinder

MacProductFinder is a HyperCard™ directory of UK distributed products for the Apple Macintosh™. It is intended as an additional service to that provided by your Apple Dealer, and shows the broad range of products available to you for the Macintosh. It will help you to explore even more of the potential uses for your Apple computer, and at the same time will show you some of the values of HyperCard.

MacProductFinder will be updated approximately once per quarter. You may obtain updates from your dealer, or can join a subscription service from Informac, the authors of the directory. Address and details can be found in MacProductFinder. Your comments on the product may also be sent to the same address.

How to use MacProductFinder

1. Ensure that HyperCard is installed on your hard disk (see HyperCard Users Guide for details).
2. Create a new folder called MacProductFinder on your hard disk.
3. Insert the MacProductFinder disk 1 into the floppy drive and double-click on the disk icon to open the MacProductFinder window.
4. Drag the contents to your newly created MacProductFinder folder on your hard disk.
5. Eject MacProductFinder disk 1 by dragging the disk icon into the wastebasket.
6. Repeat steps 3-5 for MacProductFinder disk 2.

You should then have 3 icons in your MacProductFinder folder: "Welcome" stack, "Products" stack, and "Data" folder. Drag Products stack into Data Folder and double click on the Welcome stack icon to start up MacProductFinder. Instructions for continuing are then on the opening cards.

If you need further instructions on copying disk contents, please refer to your Users Guide.

Please note

Inclusion of a product on MacProductFinder implies no specific recommendation by Apple Computer Inc. It is up to you, the user, to satisfy yourself of product suitability and to this end, your dealer will be able to advise you.

Unlike other software products, you may copy MacProductFinder and share the product with other Macintosh computer users. However, you may not market, distribute, rent or transfer copies of MacProductFinder for commercial purposes, either alone or as part of any product or equipment without written agreement from Apple. You may not modify, adapt, translate, or create derivative works based upon MacProductFinder or any part thereof.

Even though MacProductFinder has been extensively researched and prepared over many months, and is thoroughly checked and regularly updated, it is not possible for a directory to be 100% comprehensive in this dynamic marketplace. We believe the MacProductFinder directory, is nevertheless an invaluable reference guide.
